Paper Numbering: Proceedings of SPIE follow an e-First publication model, with papers published first online and then in print and on CD-ROM. Papers are published as they are submitted and meet publication criteria. A unique, consistent, permanent citation identifier (CID) number is assigned to each article at the time of the first publication. Utilization of CIDs allows articles to be fully citable as soon as they are published online, and connects the same identifier to all online, print, and electronic versions of the publication. SPIE uses a six-digit CID article numbering system in which:

- The first four digits correspond to the SPIE volume number.
- The last two digits indicate publication order within the volume using a Base 36 numbering system employing both numerals and letters. These two-number sets start with 00, 01, 02, 03, 04, 05, 06, 07, 08, 09, 0A, 0B ... 0Z, followed by 10-1Z, 20-2Z, etc.

The CID number appears on each page of the manuscript. The complete citation is used on the first page, and an abbreviated version on subsequent pages. Numbers in the index correspond to the last two digits of the six-digit CID number.

Introduction

We have had the great honor to organize the 4th International Symposium on Photoelectronic Detection and Imaging in Beijing; it follows ISPD12009 held also in Beijing in 2009. More than 1000 participants attended ISPD1 2011. The symposium provided a forum for the participants to report and review ideas and up-to-date comprehensive progress and developments and to discuss the novel approaches to application areas in the field of photoelectronic detection and imaging.

There were 720 papers accepted for presentation at ISPD1 2011, contributed by over 1,200 authors from nearly 20 countries, including: United States, Canada, Russia, United Kingdom, Germany, Ireland, Belgium, Poland, Czech Republic, South Africa, Australia, Korea, Japan, India, Malaysia, Singapore, China, and so on. We have nearly 100 international famous scientists and experts as invited speakers. The invited papers covered topics such as sensor and micromachined optical device technologies, laser sensing and imaging, infrared imaging and applications, imaging detector and applications, terahertz wave technologies and applications, space exploration technologies and applications, and related technologies and applications. It is sincerely hoped that the research and development in photoelectronic detection and imaging will be promoted, and the international cooperation sharing the common interest will be enhanced.

I would like to heartily to thank our sponsors and cooperative organizations for all they have done for the symposium. Thanks also to all the authors for their contributions to these proceedings, to all of the participants and friends for their interest and efforts in helping to make the symposium possible, to the organizing committee and the program committee for their effective work and valuable advice, especially the ISPD12011 Secretariat, and to the SPIE staff for their tireless effort and outstanding service in preparing and publishing the conference proceedings.

Again, we extend our warmest greetings to you and hope you have had a rewarding and exciting stay during ISPD1 2011.
