Paper Numbering: Proceedings of SPIE follow an e-First publication model, with papers published first online and then in print and on CD-ROM. Papers are published as they are submitted and meet publication criteria. A unique, consistent, permanent citation identifier (CID) number is assigned to each article at the time of the first publication. Utilization of CIDs allows articles to be fully citable as soon as they are published online, and connects the same identifier to all online, print, and electronic versions of the publication. SPIE uses a six-digit CID article numbering system in which:

- The first four digits correspond to the SPIE volume number.
- The last two digits indicate publication order within the volume using a Base 36 numbering system employing both numerals and letters. These two-number sets start with 00, 01, 02, 03, 04, 05, 06, 07, 08, 09, 0A, 0B ... 0Z, followed by 10-1Z, 20-2Z, etc.

The CID Number appears on each page of the manuscript. The complete citation is used on the first page, and an abbreviated version on subsequent pages. Numbers in the index correspond to the last two digits of the six-digit CID Number.

HVEI KEYNOTE SESSION I

9014 02	Seven challenges for image quality research (Keynote Paper) [9014-1] D. M. Chandler, M. M. Alam, T. D. Phan, Oklahoma State Univ. (United States)
---------	---

AUDITORY/VISUAL INTERACTIONS: FROM DETECTION TO COGNITION

9014 07	Audiovisual focus of attention and its application to ultra high definition video compression (Invited Paper) [9014-6] M. Rerabek, H. Nemoto, Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne (Switzerland); J.-S. Lee, Yonsei Univ. (Korea, Republic of); T. Ebrahimi, Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne (Switzerland)
9014 08	Influence of audio triggered emotional attention on video perception (Invited Paper) [9014-7] F. Torres, H. Kalva, Florida Atlantic Univ. (United States)
9014 09	3D sound and 3D image interactions: a review of audio-visual depth perception (Invited Paper) [9014-8] J. S. Berry, D. A. T. Roberts, Durham Univ. (United Kingdom); N. S. Holliman, The Univ. of York (United Kingdom)

PERCEPTION AND APPEARANCE OF MATERIALS: TEXTURE, LUMINANCE, AND NOISE: JOINT SESSION WITH CONFERENCES 9014 AND 9018

9014 0D	An investigation of visual selection priority of objects with texture and crossed and uncrossed disparities [9014-12] D. Khaustova, J. Fournier, E. Wyckens, Orange SA (France); O. Le Meur, Univ. de Rennes 1 (France)
9014 0E	Memory texture as a mechanism of improvement in preference by adding noise [9014-13] Y. Zhao, N. Aoki, H. Kobayashi, Chiba Univ. (Japan)

REAL-WORLD AND NATURAL ENVIRONMENTS

- 9014 0F Computer vision enhances mobile eye-tracking to expose expert cognition in natural-scene visual-search tasks [9014-14]
T. P. Keane, N. D. Cahill, Rochester Institute of Technology (United States); J. A. Tarduno, R. A. Jacobs, Univ. of Rochester (United States); J. B. Pelz, Rochester Institute of Technology (United States)
- 9014 0G An adaptive hierarchical sensing scheme for sparse signals [9014-15]
H. Schütze, E. Barth, T. Martinetz, Univ. of Lübeck (Germany)
- 9014 0H Referenceless perceptual fog density prediction model [9014-16]
L. K. Choi, The Univ. of Texas at Austin (United States); J. You, Hongik Univ. (Korea, Republic of); A. C. Bovik, The Univ. of Texas at Austin (United States)
- 9014 0I Dynamics of backlight luminance for using smartphone in dark environment [9014-18]
N. Na, J. Jang, H. Suk, KAIST (Korea, Republic of)
- 9014 0J Effects of image size and interactivity in lighting visualization [9014-19]
M. J. Murdoch, M. G. M. Stokkermans, Philips Research (Netherlands)
- 9014 0K On the delights of being an ex-cataract patient: visual experiences before and after cataract operations; what they indicate [9014-20]
F. L. van Nes, Technische Univ. Eindhoven (Netherlands)

METHODOLOGIES FOR QUANTIFYING PERCEPTUAL QUALITY: JOINT SESSION WITH CONFERENCES 9014 AND 9016

- 9014 0L X-Eye: A reference format for eye tracking data to facilitate analyses across databases [9014-21]
S. Winkler, F. M. Savoy, R. Subramanian, Univ. of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign (Singapore)
- 9014 0M Modeling the leakage of LCD displays with local backlight for quality assessment [9014-22]
C. Mantel, J. Korhonen, DTU Fotonik (Denmark); J. M. Pedersen, Bang & Olufsen A/S (Denmark); S. Bech, Bang & Olufsen A/S (Denmark) and Aalborg Univ. (Denmark); E. Nadernejad, N. Burini, S. Forchhammer, DTU Fotonik (Denmark)
- 9014 0N On improving the pooling in HDR-VDP-2 towards better HDR perceptual quality assessment [9014-23]
M. Narwaria, M. P. Da Silva, P. Le Callet, R. Pepion, LUNAM Univ., IRCCyN CNRS (France)

PERCEPTUAL ISSUES FOR VIDEO

- 9014 0O Theory and practice of perceptual video processing in broadcast encoders for cable, IPTV, satellite, and internet distribution (Invited Paper) [9014-24]
S. McCarthy, ARRIS (United States)

- 9014 OP Temporal perceptual coding using a visual acuity model (Invited Paper) [9014-25]
V. Adzic, Florida Atlantic Univ. (United States); R. A. Cohen, A. Vetro, Mitsubishi Electric Research Labs. (United States)
- 9014 OQ Characterizing perceptual artifacts in compressed video streams (Invited Paper) [9014-26]
K. Zeng, T. Zhao, A. Rehman, Z. Wang, Univ. of Waterloo (Canada)
- 9014 OR Zero shot prediction of video quality using intrinsic video statistics (Invited Paper) [9014-27]
A. Mittal, Nokia Research Ctr. (United States); M. A. Saad, Intel Corp. (United States); A. C. Bovik, The Univ. of Texas at Austin (United States)

QUALITY OF EXPERIENCE: COGNITION, EMOTION, AND AESTHETICS

- 9014 OS Personalized visual aesthetics (Invited Paper) [9014-28]
E. A. Vessel, J. Stahl, N. Maurer, New York Univ. (United States); A. Denker, National Institute of Mental Health (United States); G. G. Starr, New York Univ. (United States)
- 9014 OT Identifying image preferences based on demographic attributes [9014-29]
E. A. Fedorovskaya, D. R. Lawrence, Rochester Institute of Technology (United States)
- 9014 OU Chamber QoE: a multi-instrumental approach to explore affective aspects in relation to quality of experience [9014-30]

Introduction

Last year we celebrated the 25th anniversary of the Conference on Human Vision and Electronic Imaging. Over that time period, HVEI showcased advanced research on the role of perception and cognition in the design, use, and evaluation of images and imaging systems. Many of the ideas presented at HVEI have seeded new fields of academic inquiry and new technologies. The full set of the HVEI manuscripts from 1988-2014 have been compiled on a CD-ROM, and will be available soon through the SPIE.

This year, we celebrated the first conference in our next 25-year history. To keep the conference fresh, we used our keynote speakers, banquet speaker, and invited sessions to introduce new topics.

In the first keynote, Christopher Tyler (The Smith-Kettlewell Eye Research Institute) introduced ideas about art and vision in the perception and representation of materials. Damon Chandler (Univ. of Oklahoma) highlighted ways in which classic models of image quality still hold secrets, and new directions for the analysis of image quality. Shi-Fu Chang (Columbia Univ.) described new experiments aimed at applying machine learning to capture the emotional content in web images, based on human judgments. Later in the week, our keynote speaker Ed Chi (Google) provided insight into the way web behavior is quantified, and what it tells us about human social behavior. Our banquet speaker, Ed Vessel (New York Univ.) showed us some fascinating behavioral and fMRI studies that dealt with what pleases us aesthetically, how the way we categorize plays into aesthetic preference, and how these judgments are being mediated by our brains.

The special session on auditory-visual interactions provided a window into how information presented to the different senses is integrated, how they compete for attention, and how auditory-visual interactions are observed and manipulated in coding, imaging, and movies. The session on perceptual issues in video covered a range of interesting topics, including spatial-temporal interactions in visual processing. The two invited sessions on user experience raised the importance of social and emotional factors on judgments of image quality and aesthetics, showing that not only the task, but the environment, play a large role in how information is processed.

We also enjoyed sessions on the perception and appearance of materials, real-world and natural environments, methodologies for quantifying perceptual quality, and art and perception. And, a nice complement of interactive poster presentations motivated great discussions. In addition, each day was rounded off with a discussion session, and to top off the conference, we visited the Exploratorium the afternoon of the last day.

We are dedicated to bringing forward important and new topics at the intersection between human perception/cognition, imaging technology, and art. As we begin our second quarter-century, we find HVEI continuing its move “higher up the food chain.” We are focusing increasingly on technologies, tasks and applications that involve attention, memory, aesthetics, and emotion. As we move into this next phase, we anticipate more focus on imaging applications from medical, digital humanities, lighting, social environments, and art, which pose new challenges for understanding how sensory information is represented, explored, and understood.
